From the Desk of.....T J Chester
Twenty Second Sunday in Ordinary Time
September 2, 2018

In today's Gospel, Mark provides a significant amount of information about the Jewish observance of ritual-purity laws. Mark includes this information because his audience includes Gentile Christians who have no knowledge or experience of these laws.

Mark addresses the question of which Jewish practices would also be observed in the newly emerging Christian community. This was an important question for the early Christian Church, especially in communities that included both Jewish and Gentile converts to Christianity. We also hear this question addressed in the letters of Paul with regards to table fellowship. In Gospel passages such as the one today, we see the Gospel evangelists finding justification for a Christian practice distinct from Judaism in the remembrances of Jesus' teaching and the practice of his first disciples.

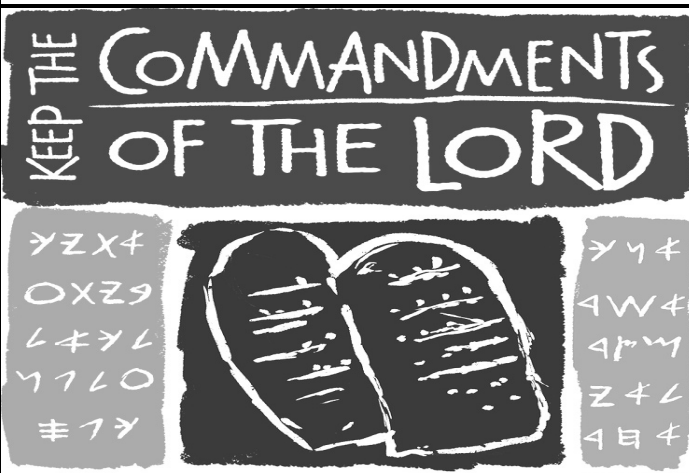

The Pharisees had come from Jerusalem to observe Jesus. The term Pharisee comes from the Aramaic term "Prisayya" translated into Greek as "Pharisaios" which literally means "separated ones". The Pharisees put themselves above the rest of the Jews. The Pharisees had developed religious rituals that served to control and discriminate against others. In the Gospel, Jesus first criticizes the Pharisees for putting human tradition above God's Law. Here, Jesus is referring to the tradition of the elders, the teachings of the Pharisees, which extended the ritual-purity laws of Temple worship to everyday Jewish life. Jesus criticizes the Pharisees for making this tradition equal to and as binding as the Law of Moses.

Next, Jesus comments on the meaning behind the Pharisees' language of holiness—clean and unclean. Jesus teaches that a person is not defiled by the food that enters his or her body, but rather by sin that emerges from his or her words and actions. In this teaching, Jesus unmarks a deeper question beyond the one posed to him by the Pharisees. The real issue is holiness, which is not found in external acts alone. Holiness comes from within and is evidenced in the actions and attitudes that emerge from a person's life.

Jesus' first teaching is directed to the Pharisees who questioned him. Jesus' words are then directed to the crowd, teaching that a person is defiled by his or her words and actions, not by the food that he or she eats. In this Gospel reading, the words to the Pharisees are words of challenge.

Jesus' words challenge us as well. In our desire to show that we are holy, we might also give too much value to externals, following rules without thinking about the intention behind them. What defiles us are our sinful thoughts and sinful actions.

Jesus reminds us that we do not make ourselves holy by our actions. Rather, we become holy when we allow the Holy Spirit to transform us and enter our hearts and thoughts. Our actions should then be an expression of the conversion of our hearts to God.
