From the Desk of....Kirstin Keller
Twenty-Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time
October 21, 2018

Dear Sister's and Brother's,

As we have entered Autumn and the weather is beginning to change it is interesting how every so often many other things can change for us, as well. For me this is particularly valid as I have made some changes in my life that I never thought possible. After many months of contemplation and prayer I have decided to change jobs. This was one of the hardest decisions I have ever had to make as I really felt that my job as Secondhand Rose Manager was my identity. Realizing that I have more potential to grow and succeed I made the decision to take the leap. I will now be working as Executive Director of the Middle Rio Grande Economic Development Association. I am confident that Secondhand Rose will remain an asset for the community of Socorro County and I will continue to advocate and support the shop in any way possible.

The importance of this is that we can not grow if we don't change and challenge ourselves. Jim Rohn once said, "Your life doesn't get better by chance, it gets better by change." As scary as it is, change is inevitable and the harder we fight it the more difficult life becomes.

In this weekend's Gospel James and John, the sons of Zebedee, ask Jesus for the best seats in the house out of arrogance that they deserve special treatment. Jesus uses this moment to teach them about the meaning of true greatness and the importance of the disciples to model after the Son of Man's mission and intentions.

In our hearts is both humility and arrogance, a desire to serve and an appetite to be served, respect for others and a desire to outshine them. The one you feed wins. Let's remember to do what the disciples in Mark don't do: repent, pray, and ask for guidance in every situation.

Lord, let your mercy be on us, as we place our trust in you.

In Christ,

Kirstin Keller
